"The City's best known, high-flying woman

In detail

After a spell at Mercury Asset management, Nicola moved to Morgan Grenfell in 1991 and she became Managing Director of the UK business in 1992. Over the following five years, funds under management increased from £4 billion to £22 billion. In 1997, Nicola left Morgan Grenfell and set up SG Asset Management for the French bank, Societe Generale. She left SG in 2003 to join AMP in Sydney to run its fund management business. In 2004, Nicola set up Bramdean Asset Management LLP and the business was launched at the beginning of 2005. Bramdean ran a number of alternative investment mandates before selling the bulk of its business to Aberdeen Asset Management at the end of 2009. Bramdean continued to create and structure innovative new investment vehicles, primarily for the film industry through Derby Street Films.
